This bill prevents much needed work force and active members to the community to settle in Iceland. It is a waste of ressources and time to make it harder for people, that received university education in Iceland to find a permanent home in Iceland. The current economy largely depends on foreign work force. This will have a long lasting effect on all sectors, from hospitality to food processing to innovation and academia.